

Who's Your School Breakfast Star?

SNA wants to know what your students' perfect breakfast would be like!
The 2013 contest asks students:

"If you could enjoy school breakfast with anyone in the world, who would it be and why?" and "What healthy school breakfast food would you eat with them and why?"

Whether it's Grandpa, a local veteran, The President, or Taylor Swift, we want to hear about it!

Three winners will have their submissions published in School Nutrition magazine and receive special prize packs from SNA!

National entries are due March 31, 2013. Find complete contests rules and entry forms at www.schoolnutrition.org/star.

Contest Overview

- Students write a brief submission answering these questions (less than 100 words each): "If you could enjoy school breakfast with anyone in the world, who would it be and why?" and "What healthy school breakfast food would you want to share with them and why?"
- Students (from grades 1-12) should draft their submissions on the official contest entry form. Submissions must be neatly, legibly handwritten or typed.
- The "Who's Your School Breakfast Star?" Writing Contest has local and national rounds of competition. All entries by students must be made to a local competition (to be organized by and held in schools). Please note that the only way to enter this contest is through a participating school, you cannot enter the national contest directly.
- SNA is encouraging schools across the nation to hold local "Who's Your School Breakfast Star?" writing contests.
- School Nutrition Professionals or other participating school officials can enter 3 overall winners per school to the national contest.
- Please note that students cannot enter the national contest directly, they must be nominated by a School Nutrition Professional or other school official.
- 1st Grade students can dictate their submission to a parent or teacher and have it written for them.
- Students are limited to a 100 word maximum for each answer.
- To judge the national contest, a panel of judges will select three national winners based on pre-established criteria, which will be published as part of the official contest rules.
- Entries must be original, not plagiarized and not evocative of any existing commercial characters so as not to infringe any copyrights or trademarks.
- Three national winners will have their submissions published in School Nutrition magazine and will receive prize packs from SNA.
- National entries are due March 31, 2013.
